ABS resin

ABS is derived from acrylonitrile, butadiene, and styrene. ABS maintains superb resistance to impact across a wide range of temperatures, as well as tensile strength, rigidity, and heat resistance.

Acrylonitrile provides heat resistance and resistance to non-polar solvents. Butadiene provides rubbery behavior, and resistance to impact. Styrene also provides good processing characteristics. The advantage of ABS is that this material combines the strength and rigidity of the acrylonitrile and styrene polymers with the toughness of the polybutadiene rubber.

Ring Terminal

A crimp-style terminal is a part used for electric connection between wires or between a wire and a terminal block.

The crimp-style terminal is a part that is standardized by the cross-sectional area (mm²) of the wire and the diameter of the hole of the terminal joint. As a method of use, the crimp terminal is inserted into one end of the wire and the crimp pliers are used to crimp the joint and fix it with the wire.

We used oxygen-free electrolytic copper for crimp-style terminal. And we acquired the certificate. (KS C 2620, UL486A-486B)
